THE BUNGALOW

Turn back time. Go back to the 1940s.
Don't just read history, be a part of it.
And stay there for a while.

CGH Earth, a pioneer of responsible tourism in India, has partnered with Harrisons Malayalam Limited, a major player in natural rubber production and tea cultivation in South India. This partnership introduces a unique experience - an enchanting tea plantation retreat, seemingly cut off from the world.

Nestled within Munnar's famous Lockhart Estate, this retreat resides on about 1,500 acres of tea plantations and is located in the historic Lockhart Bungalow, one of three colonial-era bungalows on the estate. The Lockhart Estate has a rich history. Started in 1879 during the British Raj, it's the first estate in the Munnar region used for plantation. It originally cultivated cinchona, then transitioned to coffee, and finally to tea.

Lockhart Bungalow features three well-maintained rooms with views of rolling hills and tea gardens. It's the ideal getaway from daily life.
