

Plunge into Fort Cochin of centuries past. This historical plot of land that once housed a famous boatyard now has another landmark, the Brunton Boatyard. Its stately architectural style blends harmoniously with the flavour of Fort Kochi, with its echoes of long-forgotten but ever-present influences of the Portuguese, Dutch and the British settlers even in its cuisine. From vintage portraits on the walls to wood-carved pankahs and four-poster beds, revel in old-world glamour and charm.
